'CHIEF WITH NO FEATHER' — Kenneth Eriacho, 34, of Rama, N.M., is "chief" of a work crew of 75 Navajo Indians from Arizona and New Mexico and assistant foreman of construction on Santa Fe rail lines in the Cameron-Somerville project Eriacho coined the phrase in an interview earlier this week. He is a short, powerfully built man who has been working on railroad crews for 16 years and head of this work party for the past year. His group includes several college graduates. He attended Indian school in Albuquerque, N.M.

'CHIEF WITH NO FEATHER'....

Eriacho Heads Navajo Crew

By Frank M. Luecke

Kenneth Eriacho, 34, is a rugged man, a quiet man.

He smiles quickly when he says he is "Chief With No Feather."

He is "chief" or foreman of a 75-man Navajo Indian work crew emplacing 1440-foot strings of new rail on the Santa Fe line from Cameron to Somerville.

And he is assistant foreman of the whole crew which is spending several months working out of Cameron on the $150,000 rail project.

Eriacho says his chief is Raymond Naka, who is Navajo chief on the Rama Area (New Mexico) Reservation.

LARGE WORK FORCE

The Navajo work crew is part of a larger force of technicians and railroad construction personnel making the change. They are replacing short 112-pound rails with 119-pound, continuous-weld track pre-strung in Temple yards. The idea is to eliminate rail noise or the familiar "clickity-clack" at the rail joints.

Eriacho, who is three-quarters Navajo, one Spanish, and his workmen spend six weeks on the job, then return to their homes in Arizona and New Mexico for a week off.

This schedule allows him time to visit with his wife Katherine, and their seven children ages 10 to 2. They are: Irene, the oldest, and Rita, Robinson, Robert, Kenney, Jr., Katey and Nina.

Eriacho is responsible for a large part of the setting of track. His work day begins at 4 a.m. when he arises and ends at 2 p.m., ahead of the heat of the day. The crew's work is heavy, using traditional sledges and airhammers to drive spikes and working around the heavy machinery that moves the rail into place.

5:30 A.M. START

Work begins at 5:30 a.m. The men are back at the Cameron Station by 2:30 each afternoon. They live in specially fitted railcars, complete with bunks, showers, and facilities for storing clothing and other gear. They usually are in bed by 8 p.m.

All of the men are experienced railroad workmen. The current replacement project they are working began 14 months ago at Holbrook, Arizona. Some of the men worked at Needles, Calif.

Through rail construction work with three railroads, Eriacho has travelled to Chicago and over the Southwest and West. He began work as a laborer with the Rio Grande Railroad, later went with Union Pacific and finally with Santa Fe where he was promoted to assistant foreman a year or so ago.

He employs the Navajo language to give some orders, but not all of them, Eriacho says. The language is spoken, but has no written alphabet.

Eriacho went to Indian School in Albuquerque, N.M. for about seven years, going to work at 17 for the railroad. With Union Pacific, he became operator of a tie puller. He has been with Santa Fe 14 years.

RAMA, N.M. HOME

His Albuquerque school had about 600 students for 12 grades. He and his 10 brothers and sisters attended. They grew up at Rama, N.M., a town primarily of Navajo people with about 700 population.

Rama, south of Gallup, N.M., has a store, a cafe and post office, the usual centers of a rural community.

Eriacho and his family live on three-quarters of a section of land near Rama. The land is quite dry and no crops are grown except some vegetables. Water is from wells.

The Eriachos attend the Mormon church, particularly the children, he says.

His generation has four policemen, one a police captain at Wondera, Arizona. One brother is a policeman at Crown Point, N. M., and two others are policemen in Rama.

His father, Frank Eriacho, died at a young age, he recalls. Eriacho chooses to look ahead, not back.

The old and new mingle wherever the Navajo people live. For recreation, he likes to ride horses. Some of the older generation still know the crafts involved in making famous Navajo blankets. But travel is changing the pattern.

13 STRINGS A DAY

Eriacho is proud of being part of an organization that can lay 13 strings of that 1440-foot rail a day. The huge cranes and other equipment involved in the work demand more than physical strength of the men who work around it. They are putting down about 100 miles in this project, he says.

A plastic work helmet is Eriacho's "headdress," which, like everything else, is changing. He wears his hair close cut because of the heat.

He is stocky and rugged. He wears dark sunglasses under his helmet and moves with authority.

He is a man who can handle a tough job. A sense of humor, he has, but a sense of pride he has even more. And with reason.

What's an acronym?

Anything like a synonym or antonym? Not quite, according to a piece in the Courier-News, Plainfield, N.J.

We quote:

"Nothing seems to proliferate faster these days than acronyms, those word-form abbreviations for otherwise long-named organizations NATO, SEATO, VISTA, CORE and UNICEF are examples.

"In order to show how ridiculous this can get, a group of teachers in Kanawha County, W. Va., jestingly suggested in a staff newsletter that still another program be formed. They proposed this name:

"Redirected Unilateral and Multifaceted Plans to Elevate Lower Strata and Timid Individuals and to Liven and Train Scared Kids in Need.

"Its acronym? ....
RUMPELSTILTSKIN, naturally."

Martin hasn't done anything of note in the past few days. In fact, he hesitates to change his shirt and pants.

Ever try to get a 5-year-old whirling dervish out of pants he's practically glued into by age?

"Don't throw that spotted shirt in the dirty clothes," exclaims Martin. "And not those pants either!"

"But they're dirty!"

"No, they're mine. Gimme 'em!"

"Why don't you put some other clothes on?"

"Like my swimming suit?"

"No, like a clean shirt and pants."

"Can't find any I like!"

"Look again."

"Don't want to. Everybody wears clean clothes. I go swimmin' and take a bath every night, don't I?"

"That's not the point. Dirty clothes are no badge of courage."

"Well, gimme my sheriff's badge off the shirt. It doesn't need washing. I'll wear it on my hat...... (mumble, mumble)."

4 More Wildcats Stir 'Boom' Talk

7 TESTS NOW SCHEDULED IN SOUTH MILAM

By Lloyd Albertson

Four more new wildcats, one of them a 7,000 foot deep test, were scheduled to be drilled in south Milam County and its new Milbur Field last week.

It is all but an oil exploration boom in South Milam.

All four tests are in addition to three new wildcats scheduled for the field about two weeks ago.

Rig was moved in on Saturday for one of the earlier scheduled wildcats, to be drilled by Ashland Oil & Refining Company of Houston on the Blackburn - Trammell 126 acre lease, and reportedly drilling is underway.

Location of the wildcat is in Smith Vincent Survey six miles south of Milano. It is 940 feet southeast of the Luling Oil & Gas Company No. 1 Joe Martin, 56-barrel per day Wilcox discovery brought in last month.

Permit depth for the No. 1 Blackburn - Trammell is 3,800 feet or the Wilcox and Midway. It will be the confirmation test for the new Milbur Field.

7,000 WILDCAT

The 7,000 foot deep wildcat will be drilled by Herman C. Page of Houston on a 98-acre tract owned by Eddie C. Scurlock on which he drilled a shallow test earlier this spring.

Location of Page's new wildcat is 3½ miles southeast of Milano in Benjamin Swoap Survey. It is 710 feet east of the No. 1 Scurlock which was dry and abandoned at 2,400 feet last March. Nearest production is 4½ miles away in Burleson County.

The drillsite is some three miles west of Shell Oil Company's three deep Smackover wildcats, and six or seven miles northeast of the No. 1 Joe Martin and No. 2 H. H. Coffield Wilcox discoveries that opened the Milbur Field.

Permit depth for the No. 2 Scurlock is 7,000 feet or the Midway and Woodbine, a new formation to be tested in Milam County

The other three new wildcats scheduled will be drilled on the H. H. Coffield 640 acre lease in Henry Martin Survey where the J. M. Huber Corporation completed its No. 2 Coffield Unit as an 84-barrel per day Wilcox discovery early this year.

PERMITS TO 2,800

The three wildcats will be permitted to around 2,800 feet and will be drilled by the Huber Corporation and R. E. Smith of Houston.

Location for the No. 3 Coffield unit will be 900 feet southwest of the No. 2 Coffield unit, which was the discovery well in the Milbur Field.

The No. 4 Coffield unit will be 684 feet southwest of the No. 3 location, and the No. 5 Coffield unit will be 684 feet from the No. 4, also in a southwest direction. The last drillsite location is only 900 feet from the Milam - Burleson County line.

This upcoming drilling activity is by far the greatest in recent years in Milam County, and compares with the oil boom days of the early 1920's when the Minerva-Rockdale shallow field was being developed.

TEACHER SHORTAGE....

Nine Vacancies Here

Nine teaching vacancies were listed for the Cameron Public Schools as administrators across the state termed the teacher shortage "critical" for the fall semester.

Supt. D. R. Dodson said public school administrators meeting at College Station this week agreed that the biggest problem facing schools in Texas this fall would be the growing shortage of teachers. He predicted that the faculty shortage would result in many students being taught by sub-standard faculty.

He said teachers needed here were: 4th grade, 5th grade, high school mathematics, high school science, high school commercial subjects and O. J. Thomas high school English. Three assistant coaches jobs are also open.

Dodson said low salaries remained one of the big reasons for the teacher shortage in Texas. He pointed out that travel was so fast and relatively inexpensive today that teachers did not hesitate to move to states that offered high incomes. Starting pay for teachers in Texas since the increase this year is $4,734 for Bachelors degree and $5,040 for starting teachers with a Masters degree.

BOARD MEETS

In a meeting at the school last week school board members rejected as too low bids submitted for three buses the school district is advertising for sale.

They also discussed general repairs being made on the Graham house and cleaning and trimming in progress on the school campus.

NYC WORKERS

High school boys, working under the Federal Neighborhood Youth Corps program are working on the clean-up projects. They will also scrape and do some painting at the Graham house.

Board members also discussed the proposed new band hall, but were waiting for complete prices.

Supt. Dodson said no word had been received concerning the Title I and Title II funds that would be available for next year. Teachers aids and special subjects teachers such as art and music have been included in the Federal programs the past two years.

Cameron Patrolman Promoted To Chief; Griffin Declines Job

City Council promoted city patrolman Donald Castello to Chief of Police last week after Ray Griffin of Marlin notified them that he would not accept the position.

Griffin decided to stay on his job with the Marlin police force after he was hired as Cameron Police Chief.

Castello has been a patrolman in Cameron since mid-May. He previously was a patrolman in Belton. He was in the Marine Corps from 1945 to 1960 and served with the Military Police. He was a deputy constable in Houston before moving to Belton.

Castello, his wife and two children, are living at 1104 N. Houston.

Outdoors In Texas

By Vern Sanford

Landowners may curse the weeds all summer as they fight them in the family garden and in the field. But, when Fall comes, those weeds which remained standing aford fine feed for birds.

Dove hunters who are the most successful usually find the birds around huge weed patches. In fact, they have dubbed the croton as dove weed. Perhaps more of its seed are eaten by doves than any other seed of wild plants.

These dove weeds grow in pastures, at the edge of fields and around waterholes.

Wild sunflowers also are a favorite food of game birds. Usually these are found along fence rows or in open pastures that haven't been grazed too heavily.

Doves like small grain, too.

Despite his desire for clean land, the smart landowner is the one who permits fence rows, corners and even protected pastures to produce some standing weeds. This was one of the great errors for wildlife in the plains country of Texas. Here thousands of acres were put under the plow, with not so much as a fence-line between properties.

Grain was combined. Cotton was defoliated and trees were removed. As a result the ground became barren for anything except agriculture.

Finally some landowners, mainly those with boys who got extra teaching from their FFA and extension workers, wanted a return of wildlife.

In many places small plots of ground were fenced off. Feeders were installed. Wild plums were planted for a quick growth of cover. Old automobile tires became water fountains to catch and hold rainwater for the birds.

As a result there hos been a tremendous comeback of upland game in those areas.

Dove hunters usually exceed all others. And their job is not always easy. Doves are migratory. With the first change of weather in the fall they begin to move. If there is a heavy rain or a slight norther in North Texas, they move on to South Texas.

In the meantime, however, doves move in from the middle west. We get doves in Texas from all the states in the western Mississippi watershed. They move into Texas and on through Texas. Many doves killed in the lower Rio Grande Valley are from Kansas and Nebraska.

This migration of doves is one of the causes of unhappiness among hunters. They like to have the season in the North Zone on Sept. 1. At that time, however, many of the doves still have pin feathers. Many others have just learned to fly.

Then in late November and December, when the doves are full of plumage and fat with Texas grain, the season is closed. Thousands of doves can be seen along the roadside all over the state. At that time the dove hunter begins to wonder why biologists have consistently set up early opening and closing of the dove season.

On the other hand, quail season usually opens Dec. 1. Biologists say that this is to give the young quail an opportunity to get its growth.

Yet it is a known fact that doves nest much later than quail!

This year, however, quail season will open Nov. 11 (second Saturday in November), in most of the counties under regulatory authority.

Perhaps one of these days the hunting seasons will be more in conformity with the mating periods. Not coinciding, but following the nesting period, so the young can have a chance to be born and to live.

NEW MEXICO ARTIST, TEACHER SHOWS PAINTINGS IN CAMERON

Mary Lee Garrett, Clovis New Mexico artist, visited friends in Cameron last week and informally showed some of her paintings that will be on display in Houston while she is teaching an art class at Pasadena College.

She and her husband, H. L. Garrett, were houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark and also visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Williams.

Mrs. Garrett was distinguished as "one of a half dozen of the finest woman painters in this country" by Frederic Taubes, artist, critic and contributing editor to American Artists magazine.

Most of her painting is done at her art studio in Clovis and an art gallery added to her home displays her work and the work of students and artist friends.

She works with oils using both brush and palette knife techniques. Her work includes landscapes, still life and portraits. Mrs. Garrett said she almost always paints over an underpainting, which enhances the value of the top color. For instance, a luminosity with greens is created by using an underpainting of yellow. A lifeless effect is obtained by using green over an undercoat of gray.

Mrs. Garrett teaches art in Clovis and also has had workshops in Pecos, Texas, Houston, Tucumcari, New Mexico, South Plains College at Levelland, Texas, and Alamogordo, New Mexico. Mrs. Lester Williams and Mrs. Alvin Roberts of Cameron studied under her at a workshop in Taos, New Mexico last fall.

Hospital Installs Cardiac Monitor

Newton Memorial Hospital has installed a cardiac monitor, a new and modern electronic instrument for constant electrocardiographic study of the heart.

Heart beat and pluse can be shown on a cathode ray screen of the cardiac monitor. This is used in surgery or intensive care for the protection of the patient by, what is in effect, a visual electrocardiographic tracing during the entire operation; or, in the case of serious illness or heart failure, during the entire critical period. The record made constantly as the heart beats is shown on what appears to be a television screen so the nurses and doctors in charge can see at a glance exactly what is happening to the patient's heart. A signal and alarm system is built into the apparatus which can notify the doctors and nurses if something goes wrong with the heart.

This can be used in conjunction with a defibrillator which was recently installed.

Rogers Applies For Pilot Food Service School

ROGERS

The Board of Trustees of the Rogers Consolidated Independent School District have made application to the Texas Education Agency in Austin for approval of a course in Pre-Employment Laboratory Training in Home Economics for training in food service. Thirteen girls in Rogers High School are pre-registered for the proposed course. The course will, if approved by the Agency, be a pilot school, according to Mrs. LaRue D. Allison, State Supervisor in Homemaking Education for this area.

Students would work and observe in the school lunchroom as part of their laboratory training. They would also observe in certain food establishments in the area.

The Board of Trustees is looking for a high school head English teacher and also for a band teacher, according to Supt. B. F. Harbour. These teachers will replace Mrs. Johnnie Martin, head English teacher in Rogers High for the past eleven years; and Charles Conner, band director the past five years. Mrs. Martin says she will spend her time with her husband in their Ben Franklin Store in Temple. Conner has accepted a job as director of junior high school bands in the Lamar Consolidated Ind. COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

—By—

J. D. MOORE

Grain sorghums maturing, corn in roasting ear stage and cotton blooms showing in older cotton are sure signs of the approach of summer.

Due to the early spring, grain sorghum will likely be harvested in limited areas during the last week of June. Many fields are showing quite a bit of color as the heads of grain start maturing. Grain sorghum harvest usually begins about July 10 in Milam County. No appreciable damage by the sorghum midge has been noted. However, migration of the midge into isolated fields was noted on June 5. This is about 10 days ahead of the midge migration in 1966.

Grain sorghum is the number one crop in Milam County with some 45,000 acres planted last year. Indications point to an increase in grain sorghum acreage with a continued decrease in cotton acreage. The 1966 cotton acreage was 26,795.

Hot, dry weather this week was ideal cotton growing weather. The cotton crop looks good with blooms showing up in the early planted fields. This crop is on schedule with the first bale expected in August.

The night of June 26 has been set for the annual meeting of the Heart of Texas Dairy Herd Improvement Association, according to H. L. McClasen, chairman. The meeting will be held in the Conference Room of the Chamber of Commerce office in Cameron. Dr. R. E. Leighton, Texas A&M Dairy Researcher and a top authority on dairy information, will speak.

Local weed control tests with chemicals has shown definite damage to grain sorghum in the Cameron area. The new chemical "Banvel-D" was used last year in tests with no visible damage, no drift hazard, and no decrease in yields.

In the same tests this year, results have been erratic with different degrees of damage on different varieties. Industry and researchers feel that there may be a "stage of growth" factor involved. Local opinions indicate that soil thrown up around the base of the plants by cultivation lessens the damage. More testing of the chemical is needed before it is used by farmers.

Massingill To Succeed Laffere On FHA Board

Bruce Massingill of Rt. 1, Buckholts, has been appointed to the three-man Milam County Farmers Home Administration Committee, it was announced today by Henry Ivey, county supervisor. The appointment is for a three-year term beginning July 1.

Massingill succeeds Leroy Laffere and will join the other two members of the committee who are Will Vogelsang of Rt. 2, Cameron, and Ruby Smith of Gause. The three-member committee serves in an advisory capacity to the county supervisor and makes determinations as to eligibility for loan advances for the agency. They are also frequently called upon by the county supervisor to render assistance in the servicing of loans and the development of other community services.

The Farmers Home Administration does not compete with private lenders in the field of agricultural credit; however, they supplement such sources of credit and make loans on a long-range basis for the development of farm and ranches as well as improvement of community facilities, and provide housing for the rural residents.

One of the most important programs is the family-type loan to young farmers in ever-increasing numbers throughout the state. Recent authorizations have been given the agency by Congress to make loans for recreation facilities for rural residents as well as financing multiple housing for senior citizens and labor housing associations.

Another of the more extensive loan programs includes that of making loans for small towns and communities for the establishment or improvement of water and waste disposal systems.

Additional Funds For Farm Loan Allocated

The Farmers Home Administration has been authorized to insure an additional $148 million of rural loans according to word received by Mr. L. J. Cappleman, Farmers Home Administration Texas State Director.

This action, announced in Washington by Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, will enable USDA's Farmers Home Administration to commit an additional $30 million in Farm Ownership loans and $118 million in Rural Housing loans to low and moderate income families. Both the funds for Farm Ownership and Rural Housing loans are being made available immediately.

Farm Ownership loans are made to buy land, construct or repair buildings, improve land and refinance debts. They are repayable over 40 years and bear 5 percent interest.

Rural Housing loans are made to farmers and other rural residents in open country and small rural communities with populations of not more than 5,500. Loans are made to construct and repair needed homes and essential farm buildings, purchase homes or buy sites on which to build homes. The maximum term is 33 years. The interest rate on loans to families with low and moderate incomes is 5 percent.

The Central Texas Economic Development District received a grant totaling $40,776.99 and hired Preston M. Hays as executive director of the project.

Before accepting the Central Texas position, Hays was assistant director of industrial development for Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad in Dallas. He opened the first Industrial Development office of the railroad away from company headquarters in 1952.

Hays' experience includes site-planning, industrial district planning, financing for real estate and industrial projects and full handling and coordination of the construction of rail facilities to serve plants and warehouses.

974 Quota For July Draft Call

AUSTIN -- The state's 155 draft boards will be called upon to furnish 974 men for the armed forces in July, Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said Thursday.

Monthly calls in the period from January through June ranged from a high of 1,110 to a low of 674.

The Selective Service boards will forward 5,016 men for draft pre-induction examination in July, an increase from 4,000 in June.

Local board quotas for induction and pre-induction already have been figured and mailed to the state's local boards.

Colonel Schwartz also said state Selective Service had received a quota for four doctors of osteopathy to enter the Army or Navy in July, August, and September.

The Texas quota of 974 men for July is the state's share of a national call of 19,000. This manpower is for the Army.

NEW WHEAT VARIETY

Fifteen years of breeding work have gone into the development of a new wheat variety for Texas. It has been named "Sturdy" for its ability to stand up in storms and with heavy loads of grain. Seed will be available after the 1967 harvest from certified seed growers in Texas.

MDMV is expected to cause an estimated loss of $2 million to Texas corn and grain sorghum crops this year. Crops affected by the virus include field, sweet and broomcorn and grain sorghum.

BEN MILAM STATUE

The Court Of Day-To-Day . . . .

The Seminoles of Florida are about to find an accounting of perhaps $40 million for land wrested from their ancestors more than 100 years ago.

A member of The Herald's staff interviewed this week another American of that birth more original than those of us white or black.

His name is Kenneth Eriacho, a Navajo Indian (one quarter Spanish) who is assistant foreman and "chief" of a crew of 75 Navajoes from New Mexico and Arizona. They work out of Cameron on new Santa Fe rail installations.

Eriacho is 34, the father of seven children and as straight an answerer of questions as anyone would hope to meet. And he has a sense of humor, terming himself "Chief with No Feather."

He has finished seven grades of school. Some of his crew are college graduates. The Negro is not the only one with concern for equal opportunity.

His has been a life of hard work, but work of which he is proud. He is now a salaried man who in a real sense, easily an American tradition, has worked himself up. And his sense of humor and his job imply self confidence and satisfaction with a hard, honorable life.

If the Seminoles of Florida are having their "day in court", the Kenneth Eriachos, for their acceptance of responsibility, are having theirs in the Court of day-to-day, the toughest of all.

What Others Say . . .

New Lights . . . . .

Today's driver stares at a jukebox array of fixed and winking lights on his instrument panel. Car buffs, who prefer gauges, call them "idiot lights." They come in red, blue, green or yellow and they bear tidings of woe somewhere within the mechanical brute.

The Ford Motor Co. recently listed some. The oldest idiot light is the high headlight beam indicator; it came aboard 30 years ago. Now there are lights that warn of an overheated engine, low oil pressure, a discharging battery, a door ajar, a low fuel tank.

Some cars have lights that glare at you when seat belts aren't fastened, when the trunk is unlatched or the parking brake engaged. There is a light that tells you when the FM station to which the radio is tuned is broadcasting in stereo.

In the future, Ford says, there may be idiot lights that wink when tire pressure is low, or when a car ahead applies its brakes. There is talk of installing a "super-idiot" light; it will flash when other lights aren't working.

The prospect of having this Christmas tree array come ablaze all at once is shattering enough to curl the average motorist's hair. It may prompt some old fogies to recall with pure nostalgia the sterner, harsher, slower and infinitely less complicated days of Henry Ford's Model T.

MAKE A CLEAN BREAK WITH THE PAST

A flameless electric water heater needs no flue. So it tucks away almost anywhere.

Imagine the convenience of having your water heater almost anywhere you want it . . . even tucked in a linen closet.

That's one of the joys of an electric water heater. It's flameless, so it needs no flue or ventilation. So, you can install it wherever it's convenient . . . close to kitchen or bath to get hot water faster.

Of course, a modern electric water heater is so fast-heating, it gives you all the hot water you want for your family's every need. And, it's clean, automatic and absolutely silent.

Federal - State Relations Aired

By Vern Sanford

A task force of federal officials, here for a conference on federal-state relations, got an earful from disgruntled state agency officials who complained of poor communication between Austin and Washington.

Gov. John Connally opened the conference by telling the men from D. C. that the federal grant system is characterized "by misunderstanding, disharmony and, in some instances, utter confusion."

Other state officials got down to specifics when the conference broke up into small groups to discuss intergovernmental coordination, health and welfare, education, water development, outdoor recreation, economic opportunity and manpower development.

They said they want to be consulted in advance about proposed programs; they want federal agencies to work through state agencies on local programs; they want block grants which would give state agencies greater latitude in tailoring federal programs to fit local needs; and they want specific, unconflicting instructions from Washington as to what is expected of them.

Since the federal officials had been through similar sessions in 39 other states, they took the criticism without flinching.

ENOUGH OIL?

Texas Railroad Commission is keeping an eye peeled on the Middle East Crisis in case it becomes necessary for Texas to help make up for crude oil shortages growing out of the hostilities between the Israelis and the Arab nations.

Commission Chairman Jim C. Langdon said Texas has enough reserves to meet any emergency; but while increasing oil allowables is easy, overcoming logistical problems would require ingenuity.

TEXAN CULTURES INSTITUTE

Newest state office to open in Austin is the Institute of Texan Cultures. Its task is to assemble educational exhibit material for the ITC building at the HemisFair in San Antonio.

After HemisFair '68 closes its six months' run, the educational program by the State of Texas will be continued there as a permanent feature.

Institute is under the direction of H. Henderson Shuffler, former West Texas newspaperman who has been heading the UT Texana programs for the past five years. Exhibits will portray the colorful history of Texas in terms of the people who made that history.

COURTS SPEAK

Supreme Court will hear arguments July 19 on whether parents can collect damages for premature birth and subsequent death of a child due to injury of the mother in an accident.

In other questions the high court:

—Agreed to review the $200,000 judgment favoring a workman who was burned when his bulldozer burst an underground pipeline in Brazoria County.

—Upheld a trial court decision awarding damages to a woman who lost her hair from application of a lanolin bath on bleached hair (extending doctrine of strict liability to cases other than foodstuff).

—Found parents of injured child who poured kerosene on smouldering stick are not barred from suit against an oil company which allegedly adulterated fuel with gasoline.

AG AND THE LEGISLATURE

Although the lawmakers turned down a proposal for creation of a coordianting board to study problems in agriculture, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White was given the job -- and the money -- to make the sort of studies envisioned for the proposed superboard.

In the appropriations bill, funds were earmarked for studies on ways to expand marketing outlets for Texas commodities and research on boll weevil eradication, aflatoxin control, peanuts, plums, peaches, dairy products, fire ants, castor beans, vegetables, cotton, mohair, wool and statistics on county farms.

In addition, appropriations were bigger and better than ever for the Texas Animal Health Commission, A&M's Agricultural Experiment Station and Extension Service, salaries for teachers of veterinary medicine and the Veterinary Diagnostic Laboratory.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULES

Texas gas and oil production taxes do not apply to gas and oil which is severed in Texas, but produced from reservoir located entirely out of state, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin held.

In other opinions Martin concluded that:

—"Cable tv" concerns are not required to pay gross receipts tax charged telegraph message companies.

—Parks and Wildlife Department has authority to control and protect marl, sand, shells, gravel and oyster-bed resources and to seek court action to protect fish and shell-fish breeding grounds against disturbances (except those necessary to navigational purposes).

—Lamar County Hospital district may pay private institutions located within its district for medical care rendered to needy and indigent in district's own facilities.

—State Board of Hairdressers and Cosmetologists has authority to refuse to issue a license for operation of a business which has same name as one previously licensed and still in operation.

—Sharpstown State Bank can purchase a building in Sharpstown Center, Houston, with legal limitations governing bank investment of capital.

SCHOOL SALARIES

By increasing salaries for classroom teachers, the Legislature also raised the pay of administrators, principals and counselors whose base pay is what they would make if they were classroom teachers.

Depending on degrees earned and years of experience, a classroom teacher may, under the new law, be paid anything from $3,132 to $6,912 for nine months.

With the same conditions applying, administrative personnel get the same sums, but spread over 12 months for superintendents, 11 months for principals and 10 months for counselors.

On top of the base pay, each superintendent gets a 20 percent to 40 percent increment, depending on the size of his school system; each principal gets a 20 percent increment; and each counselor gets a $300 increment.

Under the new law, the lowest possible salary for a superintendent is $5,011.20 and the highest is $12,902.40. Principals can earn as little as $4,593.60 and as much as $10,137.60. Salary scale for counselors will run from $3,780 to $7,980.

POLLUTION BOARD TO VISIT

President's Water Pollution Control Advisory Board will visit Texas June 26-29 to survey state pollution problems first hand and study solutions being undertaken.

Nine-member board will visit Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Corpus Christi, Galveston and Houston. Trip will be climaxed June 29 by a public meeting at the Rice Hotel in Houston.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editar:

The thing about listening to news on television and reading it in a newspaper is that you can come out with some interesting notions.

For example last week I spent some time in front of the T.V. listening to the United Nations sessions on the Middle East situation. Incidentally, while it shouldn't be that way, up to now I have always figured turning a big world problem like the Arab-Israel war over to the U.N. was about like trying to stop a bank robbery with a committee from the P.T.A. Maybe I was wrong.

At any rate, after the cease-fire order was given, a representative from the Arab countries, I didn't catch his name, was asked in a television interview what the result would be.

"I can answer that easily," he said. "The result will be that the United States will be the biggest loser in the whole affair."

I didn't understand that at all until I picked up a newspaper I was saving to read while the Ambassador from Syria was talking and read that in the last few years the United States has sent 346 million dollars worth of military aid alone to 10 Arab countries.

Then it began to dawn on me what the Arab representative was talking about. He meant the United States will lose one of its best customers for hand outs. Naturally this would be a serious blow.

However, I am afraid the Arab mind doesn't understand the resourcefulness of the American mind. What it doesn't know is that while we might have our aid rejected in the Arab nations, we'll find somebody else to take it. You wait and see.

There must be some country on earth we haven't sent aid to yet, although off-hand I can't think of it. If you know of one, please wire Washington at once so we can offset our losses in the Arab countries.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

The first of the summer Family Living classes of the Rogers PTA was held June 12 in the school cafetorium. Mrs. L. H. Brumley of Temple demonstrated china painting and displayed some of her work during the discussion on crafts.

Mrs. Branda Hatcher and Mrs. Elwood Raley are sponsors of the classes, which will include: "Let's Solve Our Sewing Problems", on June 19; and "Recipe Exchange", June 26.

Everyone is invited to attend the classes which are from 8 to 10 p.m. Baby sitters will be provided for children in the gym.

WIND RESISTANCE

Be prepared for hurricane or tornadic winds, advises W. S. Allen, Extension agricultural engineer, by securely anchoring all farm buildings.

New Elementary Teacher Elected By Rogers Board

ROGERS

At the regular June meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Rogers CISD, Mrs. Verna F. Linn was elected to teach in the Rogers Elementary School for the ensuing year.

Mrs. Linn is a graduate of Abilene Christian College. She, her husband Gene, and children have recently moved into the Rogers school district. Mrs. Linn will succeed Miss Gwyn Lanier of Temple who resigned from the primary position here to accept a similar position in the Corsicana Public Schools.

In other business, the Board signed an agreement with the Commodity Distribution Division of the State Public Welfare Department to continue receiving commodities for the lunchroom for 1967-1968.

The Board approved making some changes in the two special education rooms for the coming year. It also approved making application to the Texas Education Agency for a homemaking department unit in 'Pre-employment Laboratory Training in Homemaking'. Ten girls have pre-registered for the course, which will be taught if approved by Miss Brenda Hatcher.

The school district Board of Equalization meeting was set for June 27 at 8 a.m.

What marvelous buildings has man erected through the centuries. What lofty and inspiring structures has he created.

But how many of these glorious accomplishments stand intact today? We can see famous ruins the world over — mute reminders that what man builds is not permanent.

Today our buildings contain great slabs of concrete holding hidden wire and steel that will not break with stress. But can we be sure that today's creations will be standing a hundred years or two hundred years from now? Of course not.

Of what can we be certain? What does last?

Certainly the gifts of God tower indestructibly today as they have for generations . . . the things of the spirit — faith, hope and love. Our church buildings may crumble or be destroyed, but the fellowship of believers is perpetual throughout the ages.

Discover for yourself the great spiritual truths. Discover for yourself through His Church, those things which endure forever.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
. . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Parade Possibly Last For Texas 49th Armored Div.

NORTH FORT HOOD

Texas' 49th Armored Division marked the mid-point of its 15-day annual field training Saturday, with a parade that its commanding general says may 'possibly" be the last for the Lone Star Division.

With the Pentagon's troop proposal announcement, it appears the 49th will become a high priority brigade, thereby losing its division status.

While complete details of the planned reorganization of the Texas National Guard are presently unknown, Brigadier General James D. Scott, who took over as commander of the 49th June 1, says that "it now appears the division will be converted into a mechanized infantry brigade."

Currently the 49th is at about half strength, with about 7,200 men. Of these, some 5,200 passed before the reviewing officer, Major General Thomas Bishop, adjutant general of Texas, Saturday. Others are at service schools, or on the required six months active duty with regualr forces.

In further discussing the proposed reorganization, Gen. Scott emphasized that it would entail no actual strength loss.

"In some cases," he continued, "men may have to learn new skills or further develop their current skills. But our men have proved that they are highly capable and willing to do just this."

He said that training during the first week has been "excellent and is a tribute to every man in the division."

This year, for the first time the division is using the newer M-48A1 tank. Also, for the first time since its callup during the Berlin crisis in 1961, the 49th's tankers are operating on a tank course in which all three guns -- the 90 MM main gun and .30 and .50 caliber machine guns -- are used.

Special emphasis is being placed on air mobile training exercises, in which entire platoons, numbering over 20 men, are being flown into mock-enemy territory on the CH37 helicopter, also new to the division's inventory, and deployed on simulated tactical situations. This corresponds directly with current tactics in Vietnam.

Also in parallel with the Vietnam environment, reconnaisance patrol training has men of the 49th further developing their skills in observing and scouting a "main objective" without being detected. Infantrymen are also moving over a squad attack course, sharpening the techniques of camouflage.

Still others are attending the ENTAC Missile School, learning the functions of a new anti-tank guided missile device that can be mounted on a jeep, and is considerably more potent than the recoilless rifle. Additionally, classified instruction schools are underway for battalions in the 49th with nuclear capabilities.

"All of our units have been superb thus far," Gen. Scott reemphasized.

At Saturday's mounted review -- the only time during the year the division is massed together -- loud howitzers of Battery B, Second Battalion, 131st Artillery from Shamrock, boomed a 13-gun salute for General Bishop and some 1,000 visitors, and the 149th Aviation Battalion from Grand Prairie supplied the honor guard.

During the review four units were singled out for the 49th's highest awards.

Presented the General Clayton P. Kerr Trophy as the most outstanding battalion in the division was the 949 Maintenance Battalion from Fort Worth, and commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Therreli J. Dodson.

The Governor's Award for the best company in the division went to Company B, First Battalion, 112th Armor of Irving, commanded by Captain George C. Wilson Jr.

The General J. L. Thompson Trophy for the battalion with the best recruiting effort was awarded to the Fourth Battalion of the 112th Armor. The McAllen unit is commanded by Lieutenant Colonel Joseph J. Morrow.

The General J. W. Naylor Trophy for the best recruiting effort at a company level was awarded to Company A, Fourth Battalion, 112th Armor of Donna, commanded by Captain Kenneth D. Sanders.

The Armor Leadership Award, for total performance of organization and leadership for the entire year, was presented to Company A, First Battalion, 112th Armor of Kaufman, commanded by Captain Michael H. Harris.

Following the review, most men were given leave, but are to report back Sunday night to begin preparing for the second week of training.

"I hope, and am confident, that the second week will be just as satisfying as the first," Gen. Scott added.

The men of the 49th return to their home stations on Sunday, Fathers Day, June 18.

Human Senses Still Important To Research In Electronic Age

COLLEGE STATION

In an age of electronics -- with its minutely accurate sensing equipment -- the human senses still play an important role in research, says Frances Reasonover, Extension foods and nutrition specialist at Texas A&M University.

A panel of tasters is an important research tool used by Agricultural Research Service scientists. The tasters are used for such diverse jobs as devising improved methods of preparing food, developing new processed foods, and producing better livestock.

No piece of equipment has yet been able to match completely the ability of human senses -- taste, smell, feel and sight -- in gauging the subtle differences in food flavors and textures.

Taste-panel scores for tenderness juiciness, and flavor, for example, show that today's tender young poultry requires less cooking time than poultry of past years. Panel scores also indicate which cooking procedures will put the most satisfying turkey on the table.

The panels have also been used to study tenderness of pork from hogs of varying degrees of leanness. Work so far indicates that pork from typical meat-type hogs, those bred and selected for meatiness, is somewhat more tender than pork from lean, run-of-the-mill hogs.

ARS sceintists who supervise taste-panel tests make every effort to control conditions that might influence results. The carefully selected and trained panel members use individual booths while tasting food samples. The temperature and lighting of the room are kept constant. And the type and color of the container in which the samples are offered are kept the same throughout the testing -- just to keep them from influencing the taster's decision.

• Clarkson

By Mrs. J. A. Blasienz

A large number of friends from the Clarkson community attended funeral services for Amos Doskocil Sr. on Wednesday at Hoelscher Funeral Chapel in Rosebud. Burial was in Woodland Cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Townsend and daughter, Mary Frances of Houston. Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Townsend of Austin, and Mrs. Frank Ocker of Rosebud were guests of Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Hauk and children on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Archie Wilson and Suzanne of Bryan, Mrs. O. J. Rhodes of Smiley. Mrs. Barry Bonham and children, Brenda, Ricky and Bonnie June of San Antonio and Mrs. Robert Bush of Austin visited Mrs. J. A. Blasienz on Tuesday and in the afternoon they all visited Miss Lena Yoe in Cameron.

Mrs. T. W. Garrett, and her grandson, Paul Garrett, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hauk of Bryan have been visiting Mrs. Joe Hauk.

Miss Gaylen Spicak of Waco spent a week with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Chollett recently.

Visiting relatives here on Wednesday and attending the funeral of their uncle, Amos Doskocil Sr. were Johnnie Joe Hauk of New Braunfels, Jimmy Hauk of Buckholts, Paul Hauk of Bryan, Mrs. Jack Briggs and son Larry, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Richardson, and Mrs. Davy Johnson all of Fort Worth, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Kohring and Paula of Irving, and Clarence Dodd of Austin.

OUTDOOR TIPS

When farmers used to mow their sorghum, the stubble fields were excellent feeding places for doves. They could be kicked up along the sorghum rows most any time of the day. Some would fill their crops so full of seed they looked like pouter pigeons.

However, modern methods of combining grain have reduced the amount of grain that falls to the ground. Therefore a sorghum patch no longer is quite so good for doves.

All in all, the cussed weeds do have a part in providing more than just feed for birds. They also provide cover not only for birds but for other small forms of wildlife.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Schwarz were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Hanke of Copperas Cove.

MEDIC TRAINING — Pvt. Robert L. Cone is in training as an Army Medic at Ft. Benning, Georgia with the 58th Infantry, 197th Brigade. He is the son of Mrs. R. A. Cone and the late Mr. Cone and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Tyler of Cameron and Mr and Mrs. W A. Bolinger of Gause.

PIGWEED, DANDELION GREENS ARE GOURMET'S SUMMER SALAD CHOICE

When summer greens sprout, gourmets take to the fields and woods to gather ingredients for salad.

The recipe may call for curly dock leaves, dandelion greens, rosettes from shepherd's purse, watercress, or wood sorrel leaves.

Many edible plants grow wild in the United States, the National Geographic Society says. Even such common garden pests as purslane chickweed and pigweed can be dressed up with an oil-and-vinegar dressing or cooked with wild onions.

Special "Spinach"

Pigweed often is scorned as food because of its unsavory name. As an experiment, a botanist once served pigweed to neighbors, calling it a special type of spinach. They all asked for a second helping.

Carrion flower got its unfortunate name from its pollinator, the carrion fly. The young shoots of the plant resemble asparagus and are delicately flavored.

Cattails are versatile delicacies. Fresh young spikes taste like a cross between string beans and asparagus. The roots, ground, add flavor to a salad.

The starchy tubers of arrowhead, which grows in swampy places across most of the United States, can be substituted for potatoes.

Ingredients for beverages as well as food, are readily available in the woods. Cassina tea, made from the dried powdered leaves of the cassina shrub, is slightly stimulating because the leaves contain caffeine. The pinkish-red fruits of smooth sumac yield a refreshing cold drink similar to lemonade.

Iroquois Indians liked to chew the plump, round buds of linden as a thirst quencher. The tree's fruit, ground with its honey-rich flowers, makes an acceptable substitute for chocolate.

Ferns on Toast

Most Indian tribes enjoyed a great many wild foods, including 278 known kinds of berries and berrylike fruits.

Many tribes ate the young shoots of ferns, especially the common brake or bracken. Wild-food experts still consider the tightly rolled fronds of ostrich fern a special treat when served in cream sauce on toast.

Authorities warn, however, that eating wild plants is dangerous for the amateur. Many poisonous plants have delicately cut leaves similar to those of ferns. Novices are advised to learn the harmless varieties of ferns and other edible plants, and warned against experimenting with unknown kinds.

For the knowledgeable food gatherer, a novel summer menu might consist of sauteed inky mushrooms, cooked young cattail spikes, chilled cat-brier sprouts, bread made from the seeds of cow lilies, and a cup of cassina tea.

Counties Future Boosted By TAC

Henry N. Ivey, chairman of the Milam County Technical Action Panel said the Department of Agriculture had instructed its rural development specialists to "end the migration of rural people to large cities by helping small communities revitalize themselves."

The local Technical Action Panel was organized in 1965 and includes local heads of ASCS, SCS and FHA as well as vocational agriculture teachers. Projects started by the panel include a soil test program that is in its second year; summer youth job program is conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce; Bangs program and community water and recreation projects.

Ivey said recent communications from USDA are urging the Panel to:

—Provide assistance to multi-county planning and development groups.

—Extend services and benefits of all Federal agencies into rural areas.

—Help rural communities make economic development plans and secure services needed to carry out the plans.

Ivey said that Wayne Mann of the local Soil Conservation Service was preparing a book on possible game reserves in Milam County. Following survey work he will work with the Wildlife Service and TAC Panel to establish reserves here.

Ivey said the board could also work with the Cameron Inustrial Foupndation to help secure agriculture related industry such as canning plants. He said the Technical Action Panel would be able to supply surveys and other ground work that would aid in locating that type of industry.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed proposals addressed to the City Council of the City of Cameron will be received at the office of the City Secretary, City Hall, Cameron, Texas, until 5:00 o'clock P M, on the 6th day of July, 1967, and then publicly opened, read and considered by the City Council of said City, for the furnishing of all necessary materials, machinery, equipment, labor, superintendence, and all other services and things required for the construction of certain street improvements in the City of Cameron.

The proposed work is divided into two sections. Section "A" covers curbs and gutters and paving to be done under the assessment program. Section "B" covers drainage structures and other miscellaneous work that must be done to complete the project but which is not an integral part of the work to be done under the assessment program. Bidders must submit a bid on both sections. Since Section "A" and Section 'B" must be awarded to the same contractor, the low bid will be determined by comparing the total bids on both sections.

Under Section "A" - Assessment Program, bids will be received on two different types of paving, the Alternate I bid being for 1½" hot mix asphaltic concrete surfacing, and Alternate II bid being for 1½" cold mix limestone rock asphalt surfacing.

The City reserves the right to award the contract on the basis most advantageous to the City, to reject any and-or all bids, to waive objections based on failure to comply with formalities, and to allow the correction of obvious or patent errors.

Bidders must submit a satisfactory cashier's or certified check, or a bidder's bond, payable without recourse to the order of BASSEL WILSON, MAYOR, in an amount not less than five (5 percent) per cent of the total bid at the prices shown by the bidders on the estimated quantities upon which the bid is based, which check or bond shall be submitted as a guaranty that the bidder will enter into a contract and execute a performance bond within fifteen (15) days after notice of award of contract to him. Bids without the required check or bond will not be considered.

The successful bidder must furnish a satisfactory performance bond in the amount of 100 percent of the total contract price, and a satisfactory payment bond in such amount, both duly executed by such bidder as principal and by a corporate surety duly authorized so to act under the laws of the State of Texas as surety.

All lump sum and unit prices must be stated in both script and figures.

Bidders are expected to inspect the site of the work and to inform themselves regarding all local conditions.

Wages paid on this program must be not less than the general prevailing rates of wages. A detailed wage scale is included in the Specifications.

Instructions to Bidders, proposal forms, specifications, plans and other contractual documents may be obtained from the office of the City Secretary in Cameron, Texas.

BASSEL WILSON, MAYOR
CITY OF CAMERON, TEXAS

Funny Money

What if you discover that a dollar bill, recently acquired by you, is a counterfeit? Your quick reaction might be:

"This thing is a hot potato. I'd better unload it onto somebody else as fast as I can."

But if you do, you will be committing the serious crime of passing counterfeit money. True, you do have a hot potato on your hands. But it is folly to add to the minor mistake of accepting the money the major mistake of passing it along.

Your duty is plain. Notify the local police department or the United States Secret Service at once, giving as much information as you can about when, where, and from whom you received the bill.

No, you will not be reimbursed for the one dollar. But you will be helping to curb one of the most ancient and persistent of crimes—one that has been given a new lease on life by modern techniques of printing and engraving.

In the roster of criminals, the counterfeiter is something of a maverick. He is seldom motivated by sudden passion or by grinding poverty or by personal inadequacies. He has time enough for planning, money enough for equipment, and talent enough for manufacturing. He is a cool customer who knows exactly what he is doing.

However, merely passing—unlike manufacturing — counterfeit money may occur in perfect innocence. It is part of the government's job in prosecuting to prove that the person who passed the counterfeit money knew (or at least thought) that it was counterfeit. Consider this case:

An intoxicated fellow, caught spending counterfeit money in a bar, denied that he knew it was bogus. At the trial, the government told the court:

"Shortly before this man's arrest, he burned a $5 bill to light his cigar. So he must have known the money was no good."

But the court was not convinced beyond a reasonable doubt, and dismissed the charge. The judge said it was quite possible for a drinking man to burn real money—just to show off.

In another case, though, there was evidence that the defendant, when he realized detectives were on his trail, flushed his counterfeit money down a toilet.

This time, the defendant was convicted. The court found no reasonable explanation for this behavior except a guilty conscience.
